

3.2.2.3.2.20 Relocate with money

Why would a man with money want to live in the developed world?

He should take his money, pack his bag, and go and live somewhere where his money counts.

With enough money, at the right place, a man can still be a feudal master? The ruler of an own little empire?

In the developed world, money doesn't count as much as in the Third World. And society is so organized that there is limited freedom, and predictable sexual boredom.
