

3.2.2.3.2.79 Constitutional proposal

The constitutions of many countries are outdated. They guarantee religious freedom. But there is no truth in religions.

They overvalue free speech and free media. Both can be dangerous poison.

They undervalue the importance of sexual satisfaction. As a biological necessity, sexual satisfaction is not just on par with nutrition. Nothing, not even nutrition, matches the way, sexual satisfaction can confer meaning to a person's existence.

The lack of sexual satisfaction is not just a tragedy for an individual but also a danger to society. A lack of sexual satisfaction not only converts into unfriendliness, but can extend into amok-running in schools and suicide bombing.

It is the fundamental responsibility of governments to reduce violence in societies. The topic of optimal sexual satisfaction for an optimal number of people should be addressed in a country's constitution.