

3.2.2.3.1.6 One woman, one donkey

Women and girls best consider the sum of all human males as property that is to be divided among all women. Conflict among women is avoided easiest if there is a demographic imbalance, with an oversupply of men.

From a perspective of average women, and to rein in men, solidarity makes good sense. One woman, one donkey.

Complications arise from younger women breaking rules and competing for the attractive and rich husbands of older wives. A possible solution is to penalize men for giving in to propositions of younger women.
